It can be very annoying when you are working on a project and have to constantly create and load new templates. It would be great to have a program that would allow you to create and maintain your own templates and easily load them. The Cacophony Programmer's Template Creator (Cacpac) does just that. The program's easy to use template creation wizard allows you to easily create templates. As a result, you can now focus on the rest of your project and use your templates to create many, many beautiful images. Cacpac, which runs on Windows 95/98/NT/2000/XP, Windows 7, and Mac OS 9/10/X, is a simple yet powerful tool that allows you to create and maintain templates. To create a template, you start by clicking the button on the toolbar that says Template > New Template. The next screen allows you to browse through template categories. If you have them, choose them and then click on the Create button. The template creator will automatically select the category that you chose to work on and will offer you a variety of options for the template. The first of these options is you can modify the default settings. You are offered four options for each setting. To get started, just click on one of the four options. Next, you can check the options that apply to you. In the File type, check the option that states the desired file format for the template. Click on the Edit Settings button to open the settings window. In the initial settings screen you will see the settings you modified. You can modify the settings for each template that you make. After you have your settings ready, click the OK button and you will now be taken to a new screen. Here, you have the chance to preview your template. After you preview the template, click the OK button. Now you can save your template and then use it when you work on your projects. After you create a template, you can add or edit your template settings as many times as you want. You can add new settings to your template, make changes to the default settings, and delete settings. The program allows you to have different templates for each file type. For example, you may have one template for Photoshop, and one for
